Everyone dreads this prevalent disorder. Its coming is sudden, its termination usually speedy.

What causes the terrible scourge?

It is not "in the air,"—infectious or contagious, it results from exposure, changes of weather, prevalls more among men than women, more among the apparently healthy than among the feeble.

Pneumonia, we are told, is invited by a certain condition of the system, indicated if one has occasional chills and fevers, a tendency to colds in the throat and lungs, rheumatic and neuralgic pains, extreme tired feelings, short breath and pleuritic stitches in the side, loss of appetite, back-ache, nervous unrest, scalding sonsations, or scant and discolored fluids, heart flutterings, sour stomach, distressed look, or scant and discolored fluids, heart flut-terings, sour stomach, distressed look, pully eye sacs, lot and dry skin, loss of strength and virility. These indications may not appear together, they may come, disappear and reappear for years, the per-son not realizing that they are nature's warnings of a coming calamity. In other words, if pneumonia does not claim as a victim the parsons having such claim as a victim the persons having such symptoms, some less pronounced but more fatal malady certainly will.

GENERAL GRANT'S CIGARS. They Recall a Story Told by Thurlo Weed.

A calebrated New York physician told the Tribune, a year ago, that pneumonia was a secondary disorder, the exposure and cold being simply the agent which developes the disease, already dormant in the system, because the kidneys have been but partially doing their duty. In short, pneumonia is but an early indication of a bright's disease condition. The impaired action may exist for years without the patient suspecting it because no pain will be felt in the kidneys or their vicinity and often it can be detected only by chemical and microscopical examinations. Apropos of General Grant's Illness, the late Thurlow Weed once told me a story tor to what he attributed his firm health and length of days. "I see that Peter Cooper assigns rigid temperance as the cooper assigns rigid temperance as the cause of his," he answered with a laugh. "Mine is due, I think, to having always sat up all night and eaten and drank whatever I pleased. For dinner, generally of meat, at 12 or 10 clock every night, and I never had any trouble to sleep. I always drank with the boys and politicians; I drank everything, but not much at a time, and for more than half a century I swelfer are not sound, pneumonia cannot if they are not sound, pneumonia cannot be prevented. For this purpose there is drank with the boys and politicians; I drank everything, but not much at a time, and for more than half a century I smoked ten or twelve cigars every day—when I could get them. In the summer of 1867, being in Saratoga, I lounged down to the arrivage are morning with a cigar in ally restore inil vitality to the kidneys, for if they are not sound, pneumonia cannot be prevented. For this purpose there is nothing equal to Warner's safe cure, a remedy known to millions, used probably by hundreds of thomsands and commended as a standard specific wherever known and used. It does not pretend to cure an attack of pneumonia, but it does and can remove the cause of and prevent that disease if taken in time. No reasonable man can doubt this if he regards the personal experience of thousands of honorable men worthy his favor.

When a physician says his patient has either Bright's disease or pneumonia, he confesses his inability to cure, and in a measure he considers his responsibility ended. In many instances, indeed, persons are reported as dying of pneumonia, heart's disease, apoplexy and convulsions, when the real cause of death and so known by the physician is this kidney consumption. Thousands of people have it without knowing it and porish of it because to the spring one morning with a cigar in my mouth. On the way I met my old Iriend, Dr. Freeman, coming back with some other gentlemen. As we passed each other he leaned over to me and exclaimed, top smoking!' The salutation was so dden and such an odd one that it stuck my crop. I thought about it all day, d wondered what it meant; and after wondered what it meant; and after ner I called up at his room. He ex-ined to me that he thought I had oked longerough; that I was an old man, I habitual smoking was sure to t me—in fact he wasn't sure but it had aiready burt me. I was con-vinced, and told him I would never use the weed any more. He said I had better taper off, but I told him I didn't believe in taperings and would never smoke again.

I never did. B t I thought about it a

I never did. B t I thought about it a good deal for a while. I had written to Geteral Grant that he must be our candidate for President the next year. He had shown my letter to friends, and some correspondence had resulted. I came back to New York and found a note from the General asking me to come and see him at Long Branch. I went down with John F. Honry. As we were talking General Grant took out his cigar case and offered us cigars, taking and lighting one himself. I took one, excused myself from smoking at the time, and stuck it in the breast pecket of my coat. Well, I became better acquainted with that cigar than I cver did with any other, for I carried it in that breast pocket for a year, and I took it out every day—and looked at it and smelled of it and rolled it in my fingers and slyly nibbled the end. But I never consumed it."
